ECers

I just wanted to keep you up to date on the StRAPs and Roadmaps. Thanks to all of you who provided comments and input to the NPDs on the April 1 versions. Attached are drafts currently undergoing final review in IOAA. They have not yet been scrubbed for final formats, graphics, grammar, typos but that will be the next step. We will be sure to provide the final versions to everyone October 1. We are currently working on an Overview document summarizing the six StRAPs that we will share with all of you this summer.

Also attached are the Children's Environmental Health and the Nitrogen and Copollutants research roadmaps that are moving into final production mode. The Climate Change and Environmental Justice Roadmaps are currently under revision and we will send them to you later this summer/early fall. The plan is to have the Climate Change and EJ roadmaps reviewed by the Executive Committee of the BOSC later this year or early next year.

These planning efforts have taken a lot of time and effort and we appreciate how much work they involve. I think you will agree that they succinctly capture the impressive breadth of research directions and activities that we will undertake over the next 4 years. We are very much looking forward to the completion of the StRAPs and Roadmaps so we can move our collective emphasis into implementing the programs.

Happy July 4th to all,

Bob
